HORSE FEEDING RECOMMENDATIONS

All feed merchants recommend daily feed rates for their different feed mixes. These are an average and should be balanced off by considering the condition and exercise level of your horse and your available grazing quality. These feeds are classed as concentrates and should be fed mixed with a roughage of your choice. The ratio would ideally be 1 part concentrate to 3 parts roughage. Dry roughages need to be dampened before feeding to avoid respiratory problems or choke. To build condition it is advisable to feed 2-3 times per day, gradually increasing the amount over time until the horse starts to build condition.
